About Dr. Mark Weigelt

The Managing Director of the brains consultant network, Dr. Mark Weigelt, is one of the few German management professionals who successfully combines international top consulting, line management, and start-up experience. Before holding management positions as an Executive Director at UBS, he was a partner at Roland Berger as well as being a manager and consultant for the Boston Consulting Group in Europe and North America. In 2016 he founded his own consulting company: brains.

With brains, he supports multinationals and medium-sized companies with carefully selected management consultants from the brains network. He focuses on business expansion, sales & service productivity, and optimization of operations & IT. His clients range from industries as insurance & banking, industrial goods & services, to the consumer goods & retail sector. The client portfolio includes EURO STOXX and DAX enterprises as well as SMEs, many of them companies owned by PEs.

Mark Weigelt holds a doctorate in business informatics about distributed artificial intelligence, and he studied business administration as well as electrical engineering at Friedrich-Alexander University in Erlangen-Nuremberg, Germany.
